E. C. WALTON.

H. H. HENNINGER

Of Wayne County, is a candidate for State Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

ROBERT HARDING, of Danville, is a candidate for Circuit Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

CHARLES A. HARDIN, of Mercer, is a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this, the 13th judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Congress,

G. G. GILBERT

Of Shelby.

We had no idea of offending Bre'r Lillard, of the Danville News, when we called him "professor" and referred to him as a "pill-maker." Of course we should have said "major" and spoken of him as the "sole proprietor of the biggest drug store in Little Britain." We will be more cautious hereafter. He says we attempt to dodge the issue by not publishing a few figures he claims to have the patent right on and which he thinks are proof conclusive that primaries are wrong and conventions are right. We will gladly print his figures or almost anything he wants, (provided he furnishes a diagram with the figures) if he will grant us just one request, which is, explain how so good a democrat as he is can tear his nether garments for a gentleman who supports democratic nominees only when it pleases him to do so. Do this, "Major," and forward your "figures" and explanation of them, and we will print them in "bold type, top of column and next to reading matter." "We fought the battle with Goebel and Bryan and so did Robt. Harding," says the "major." If he has time and can do so, will he please tell which army Mr. Harding was in when he was battling in the Goebel campaign. Didn't Mr. Robert Harding help Taylor by refusing to support the lamented Goebel? The "major" knows he did and we'll drop the subject for all time to come if he will deny the charge. Never mind, "Major," about our hurting ourselves with either the druggists or newspaper men. If telling the truth damages us in the eyes of those professions, we cheerfully say let "er go Gallagher."

In the history of fads there is nothing that can compare in magnitude with the rise and fall of the bicycle. Recently there was presented commercial evidence of the decline which has been a matter of every day observation. The bicycle trust, legally entitled the American Bicycle Co., which was created to conserve what was left of the business of making and selling of wheels, has asked for the appointment of a receiver in order that its affairs may be wound up. The application cites that in the last three years the sales of wheels have declined 80 per cent., and it was a year or more earlier that the business was at its best. The important drop had the suddenness of the banana peel. One day everybody was a wheel. Persons who were enthusiastic wheelmen are unable to give any reason why they quit and stored their costly machines with the roller skates, health lift machines, blue-glass windows and other relics of abandoned mania; they can only say that while wheeling still appears to them as a rational form of exercise and pleasure, nothing could induce them to take hold of the handle bars again. There may be a future for the bicycle. The former manufacturers now have time to philosophize and they maintain that the machine is too useful to be permanently discarded. Perhaps some future generation may find wheeling profitable both as a matter of pleasure and of business but it is safe to say that the great body of those who have had their day with it can never be induced to renew their interest.

HON. RICHARD OLNEY, former secretary of State, in a speech before the Boston democratic club said that as the result of 40 years' partnership of the republican party with protected industries, both public officials and individuals regarded themselves as above the law. He cited Secretary Shaw's dealings with Wall street and President Roosevelt's effort in the coal strike. As to the latter, Mr. Olney commended the motive, but criticised him for placing himself, as president, in a position to be insulted. Mr. Olney spoke of the coal operators as persistent and unblushing lawbreakers.

Oil has taken the place of coal in upwards of 2,000 homes in San Francisco. It is said that some of the big oil concerns are ready to contract for a year for the lighter oil for ranges and stoves at the rate of four cents a gallon, delivered. But there are the insurance and the danger phases to be considered. Yet these can be overcome by our resourceful people if they are pushed to it.

The registration of Louisville shows a total of about 41,000, with a democratic plurality of 3,000 over the republican and independent vote.

Samuel P. Jesse has been appointed postmaster at Terrell, Madison county. Gen. James F. Smith, of California, has been appointed a member of the Philippine commission.

IN a royal quarrel at the court of Serbia a few days ago, Queen Draga boxed the ears of her imperial husband, King Alexander, in the presence of his courtiers. The queen is much older than the king and when a woman ventures to raise a boy by marrying him she takes for granted the privilege of pampering or punishing him as the exigencies of the case may demand.

Menefee executor.

DR. W. P. HARVEY.—While on the train with Dr. W. P. Harvey, of the Western Recorder, the other day he told us that he has dedicated during the past 25 years over 100 churches and has never dedicated one in debt. The first church he dedicated was Mt. Hebron in Garrard county. He preached the dedicatory sermon of the Preachersville Baptist church a few years ago and succeeded in raising enough money at the services to liquidate the large indebtedness. Dr. Harvey was on his way to a Baptist Association held this year at Barbourville and was returning from one held at Clinton. He goes to them all and does good work for his paper at each of them. Dr. Harvey is the father-in-law of Mr. W. C. Bell, candidate for circuit judge, and is naturally very much interested in his race. Said he, "I didn't want Con to run for the office but now that he has announced I want him to win, and from what I can hear I believe he will do so." The doctor is almost as good a democrat as he is a Baptist and he rarely, if ever, fails to stamp under the rooster.

He is one of the most active young democrats in the State and has been a valiant worker for the party since he was old enough to vote. Hon. R. C. DUDDERAR.—Miss Emily Dudderar, aged 62, died at Mr. Walter S. Warren's Thursday evening after a two weeks' illness of a complication of troubles and was buried in the Goschen Cemetery after services by Rev. D. J. Ross Friday afternoon. Miss Dudderar was a most excellent woman and in her death this section loses one who was ever ready to attend the bedside of the sick or the wants of the distressed. She was a beautiful Christian and the Methodist church here has lost a valuable member. Miss Dudderar frequently expressed a willingness to meet her Maker, anxious for that rest which surpasseth all understanding.

Reynolds, of the Christian church. His son, John P. Jones, of this place, hurried to his bedside on receipt of a telegram telling of his illness and was shocked find on his arrival that his father was dead. Mr. Jones was 68 years old and had been a member of the Christian church since his boyhood. He was a regular attendant at that church's services during his sojourn here and the members and others remember him as a most valuable and active member. His aged wife, also well remembered here, is still living, but the irreparable loss she has just sustained will more than likely shorten her days. Friends of our townsmen deeply sympathize with him in the loss of a most excellent father.

MYSER.—Mr. W. Stewart Myers died at the Gover House, Crab Orchard, at 8:20 Sunday night after a long illness of a complication of troubles, aged 62. His wife preceded him to the grave about 27 years ago, but a daughter, Mrs. A. B. Hisey, of Kansas City, and Dr. W. M. Myers, of Thorntown, Ind., are left to mourn the loss of a kind and indulgent father. Dr. Myers was at his father's bedside when death came, but Mrs. Hisey was denied that sad privilege. Mr. Myers was connected with the Wrought Iron Range Co., of St. Louis, for many years and he made that large concern a splendid man. Some six or eight months ago Mr. Myers came back to Crab Orchard and not feeling well, he told a number of people that he had come home to die. Whether he was jesting or not it is not known, but what he said came true, nevertheless. He was always fond of Mr. Curtis Cover and his excellent wife and their attention to him during his long illness greatly increased his admiration for them. His remains will be laid to rest at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Crab Orchard cemetery. There will be no services. Following are the pall bearers he selected: James T. Chadwick, James Gilkerson, James F. Cummings, James F. Holdam, James White and James Jones. The honorary pall bearers he chose are Col. W. G. Welch, J. W. Guest, Dr. J. S. Edmiston, W. A. Beazley, J. W. Holmes, Curtis Cover.

MACK COCHRAN.

Seldom has the city of Peabody, Kansas, been called upon to bear such a sudden shock and universal sorrow as was caused by the announcement of the death of Mack Cochran, which occurred on the night of Oct. 3d, in Guthrie, Oklahoma, whither he had gone on business.

He left his home in Peabody, apparently in most excellent health, in the flush and glamour of young manhood. He knew of no threatening malady, yet death, which loves a shining mark, claimed him as its own in the twinkling of an eye. He was found, as was poor Jonathan, upon the mountains of Gilboa, stiff and stark, on the morning following his arrival in Guthrie, as the result of a bronchial hemorrhage. He was a nephew of Mr. Mack Huffman, of this place, for whom he was named. "Mack," as he was familiarly called, was known to every grown person and to all the children of his native town; the highest regard of his acquaintances was always accorded him; he was their friend, tried and true, and it is no wonder then, the community was cast in gloom because of his sudden demise. He was in his 29th year, was a graduate of the Chicago Law School; a cultured, Christian gentleman of fine business qualities, an amiable companion of unimpeachable integrity.

To his father and mother, to whom he was as loving and dutiful as a son could be—the principles which actuated and controlled his exemplary life were to give pleasure and comfort to them—his loss will be a hard blow and to them his life, in the disposition of Divine Providence, finished and unfinished, will seem to have closed in the period when his usefulness was just beginning. For them and his sisters, none but the deepest sympathy is felt and in this comfortless hour many hearts ache for their burden of grief.
